Riccardo Agostini ready for last round of Lamborghini Super Trofeo

Riccardo Agostini is set for the last round of the season at Imola, looking for the third title of his career. The 23-year-old Italian driver is the current leader of the Lamborghini Super Trofeo North America, pairing with young Trent Hindman.

The Prestige Performance by Lamborghini Paramus/Wayne Taylor Racing duo heads to the only Italian track of the 2017 series 28 points ahead of Richard Antinucci and 30 still to be held. That means Agostini and Hindman will try to stay concentrated to take the crown after having claimed five class wins and four second places, as well as five pole positions and four overall victories they took at Watkins Glen, Road America and VIR.

The last 50-minute races of the championship get underway on Friday at 9.25 and 13.30 live streamed at squadracorse.lamborghini.com, whilst qualifying are scheduled on Thursday. The following days will be dedicated to the World Final 2017, with all the best drivers of the Lamborghini Super Trofeo Europe, Asia and North America.

Agostini will share again the wheel of a Huracán car with Hindman, supported by Anima Management and Venice Investment Group Ltd. Race 1 will start on Saturday after the qualifying, at 15.30, Race 2 is set for Sunday at 14, also with the web streaming.
